CSAM's Addiction Medicine Review Course and Board Exam Preparation Track Conference is the West Coast's most comprehensive overview of addiction medicine fundamentals to enhance your clinical practice and prepare for the board exam.

This three-and-a-half-day conference offers the opportunity for review of the fundamentals of addiction treatment, including evidence-based practices in the rapidly changing field of addiction medicine. Additionally, this conference incorporates research poster presentations, small group discussions, pre-conference workshops, visit with vendors who provide cutting-edge product and services in our field, and our highly popular Board Exam Preparation Track.

CSAM's Addiction Medicine Review Course provides myriad opportunities for connection, learning, and collaboration among peers, colleagues, and friends.

MESSAGE FROM THE CONFERENCE CHAIR

For the past three years, we have struggled collectively with an epidemic on top of a pandemic: drug overdose deaths skyrocketed during the first year of the COVID-19 pandemic, predominantly due to synthetic opioids such as fentanyl. In the wake of this fentanyl epidemic, there is a major shift in public policy in the treatment of opioid use disorder, even as the federal Public Health Emergency for COVID-19 comes to an end this year.

For the first time in history, any physician registered with the DEA will be able to prescribe buprenorphine, one of the most effective treatments for opioid use disorder. In December 2022, the United States Congress signed the Consolidated Appropriations Act, thereby eliminating the DATA X-Waiver requirement and ending nearly 20 years of intensive government regulation of buprenorphine.

This monumental shift in policy reflects the advocacy efforts of many agencies and organizations over the past decades, including CSAM and ASAM. The mission of CSAM is to promote evidence-based treatment and improve access to high quality addiction treatment for all. As more providers are now able to prescribe buprenorphine, it is even more imperative to promote educational efforts in addiction from medical school through Continuing Medical Education.

CSAM celebrates its 50th anniversary this year. In honor of this momentous occasion, this year's conference will feature a new approach by combining the traditional review course with panels highlighting cutting edge practices in addiction medicine. We will offer plenary sessions on all major substance use disorders focused on epidemiology, diagnosis, and treatment; geared towards ABPM Board exam preparation. Furthermore, we will feature multidisciplinary panels for the first time at a CSAM conference, addressing topics as diverse as: benzodiazepine-sparing protocol for alcohol withdrawal, treatment of ADHD in substance use disorders, adolescent addiction medicine, frontiers in harm reduction, and ketamine and other novel treatments.

We are excited to present two phenomenal keynote speakers this year: Dr. Dan Ciccarone will speak on the future of fentanyl: supply, use patterns, and public health response. Dr. Anna Lembke will speak on dopamine fast as an early intervention for compulsive overconsumption in the digital age.

As we find our footing in a post-pandemic world, I invite you to join us in San Diego this year for the opportunity to review, rejuvenate, and reconnect. I hope to see you also at the special CSAM 50th anniversary celebration on Friday evening. We look forward to serving you for the next 50 years.
